Thirty Abandoned Roosters Need New Homes

San Diego Humane Society Encourages Rooster Adoptions at its Escondido Campus

San Diego – San Diego Humane Society is looking for new homes for 30 roosters. The birds were abandoned overnight on Saturday, Dec. 28 at a feed store in Escondido. The owner left a note, explaining he could no longer take care of the animals. The birds were taken to SDHS.

The roosters, who are all healthy and social, are available for adoption at SDHS's Escondido Campus. If you are interested in adopting, please check with your city of residence to make sure you are allowed to have a rooster. Some city ordinances prohibit roosters.

SDHS urges pet owners who are unable to take care of their animals to bring them to SDHS rather than abandoning them. SDHS is an open admission shelter, meaning the society will never turn an animal away.

B-roll and photos of the roosters are available here: <http://bit.ly/2Qzgv7F>.
